

My dad had frontotemporal dementia, the same type of dementia that Bruce Willis the actor is afflicted with. It's a long and painful disease, as you lose your loved one very slowly. We fortunate to have my dad be a client at Harbor House. My sisters and also I recognized the need for our mom to have respite. He loved going to Harbor House. Once, when taking him to Harbor House, the bus driver met me, put his arm around my dad, and said "Come, Tom, let me walk you in." We, and he experienced the kindness and respect that was provided by the caregivers.

Thanks 😊
